bred, Chris speaks what he knows. coming up in a hard city, the mother. He got in a bit of trouble his friends and classmates to do around in high school though, others for good, and not bad.

He honed his leadership skills in United States Army, defending His work is information filled and inspirational, as he speaks to universal needs in his unique way.

the world's toughest school, the his country in two major conflicts.

Based in Atlanta, Ga., Chris travels across the nation, as corporations and organizations insist on getting his brand of coaching and motivation for themselves. He prepares customized presentations to suit the needs of each audience, whether he is addressing front line employees or corporate executives.

Chris has all of the paperwork to prove he knows his business: he successfully completed multiple intensive trainings while in the United States Army, and he has learned at several respected institutions, including Mercer University, Central Texas College and Cameron University. But it's his special stuff that sets him apart.

A self starter and an entrepreneur, Chris does not believe in limitations of the individual. He speaks with conviction, pushing others to break through the barriers of those perceived limitations. Whether he's coaching a sales team to new business or giving hope to a room full of people who have lost their direction, his passion shines through.

Chris doesn't just speak what he has been told, he speaks what he knows. And no matter where a person starts, he knows where the person can finish, because he's seen it in his own life: "I have been a person that started on the bottom rungs of life and through hard work and determination made it through the most challenging times of life."
